PROFILE

I am a motivated Information and Communication Technology (ICT) professional with a strong interest in technology and practical problem-solving. I have experience in IT support, computer systems, networking, and technical troubleshooting, supported by training in cybersecurity, network administration, data analytics, and computer hardware. I am passionate about continuous learning and using technology to solve practical problems. I am seeking opportunities where I can apply my skills, gain more experience, and contribute to an organization through reliable technical support, secure systems, and effective technology solutions.
